

The poppy pinned upon my shirt,
reminds me of the people hurt.

It makes me think about their pain,
The battles that they fought in vain.

I pray on day all wars will end,
All differences between people mend.
But until that day I hereby swear,
a poppy on my shirt I'll wear.

Zarin

Rahman

