

Key Stage 2 take part in Freshwater Theatre's "Inspiring Women" workshop.

The children in Key Stage 2 were delighted to take part in Freshwater Theatre's "Inspiring Women" workshop on Monday 21st June. They were taken through many important key events and travelled back in time to learn about the lives of Rosa Parks, Amelia Earhart, Frida Kahlo and Edith Cavell. The children were highly engaged and took part in protests against segregation, saving soldiers in the war and taking part in the life stories of Frida and Amelia. They learned about these heroic women who still influence life today. The workshop was informative, great fun and a wonderful opportunity for the children to take part in drama and discussion.

Here are some of the comments following the workshop.

"I enjoyed that we all had something to do and it wasn't just listening to someone"

"It was fun when she kept changing into different people!"

"I liked how she was using different accents and voices"

"I liked watching her change her personality to become different people"

"It was great that we all got involved"

"She was very creative and did very good voice impressions"

"She was so funny and taught us about different women"

"I learnt about women I didn't know about before"
